Vagabonds and Repeaters by Wholesale.

CHICAGO, Oct 3.—Facts that have come to light here seem to indicate that the Boys in Blue who are preparing to attend the Indiana political meeting are vagabonds noted roughs and repeaters and that an attempt will be made by some distributor to persons in the Democratic party to use them as voters next Tuesday in that city and vicinity. Many of those who will attend are enticed by the promise of a free passage both ways, good rations while there, and every consideration from the justly respectable minority who will be present. Some journals announce a deep laid plot to use these refuse soldiers as voters and ward the people of Indiana against them

NEW YORK, Oct 3.—The Tribune's Washington special says. "A crowd of Baltimore roughs who started for Indianapolis to-day, passed through here this afternoon. The movements of this suspicious gang have been watched for some days. It is believed their plans are now understood and that the principal object of the entire movement is to place in Indiana a large force of roughs and experienced repeaters for fraudulent and desperate uses in the election to-day. Three different detachments of the organization have passed through here to-day. Some of the cars were filled with hard characters who are well known to the police of Baltimore and Washington as professional repeaters and leaders of the rowdy element. They seem to have leaned from the different wards and many of them served for some time in the Union army. In this latter class are some noted bounty jumpers and deserters, who subsequently entered the Confederate army. The leaders in the mob which recently broke up the Republican meeting in Baltimore are prominent in the advance squad which passed through here to day. Arrangements were made yesterday which have resulted in securing the names of every one of the persons attending the expeditions. These names have been forwarded to Indiana with the means of identifying any of these repeaters if they endeavor to stuff ballot-boxes or to create a riot next Tuesday. It seems that part of the plan is that while a considerable portion of the boys who wear the blue, shall return, a great many are detailed to remain. A place near Terre Haute, appropriately known as "Rowdy Hill," has been designated as the rendezvous of some ring leaders.

Conclusion of Blaine's Speech.

And Mr. Tilden agreed, if elected, to make Mr Adams his Secretary of State. I have no taste for such gossip, and I only refer to its currency that Mr. Adams may be reminded that the political house contains a great deal of glass, that he may not with impunity throw stones at his neighbors, nor loosely indulge in railing accusations against those who conscientiously maintain as high a standard of honor as he preaches himself, and higher, perhaps than he has already practiced. I have said I had no time and no desire for personalities: if I had I might readily indulge myself at Mr Adams' expense. The personal and political gossip at Washington in 1861 was busy with Mr Adams' name, and it was currently reported that he obtained the mission to England in a manner and by means which he would now gladly consign to oblivion, and which his children would blush to have repeated. I have no disposition to indulge in that line of gossip, and prefer to confine my criticism to Mr. Adams' record on public questions; nor have I any wish to comment on his utter disregard of the difference of principles between the great political parties, standing as he has for years ready to accept a nomination from either side. Still less do I desire to rehearse the assumed belief in certain quarters that Adams' candidacy of the Democratic party was the result of a regular bargain between himself and Mr. Tilden, in which Mr. Adams agreed to give the respectability of his name to the Democratic party.

Colorado Election.

DENVER, Col Oct. 3.—Reports from the principal points at 3 P. M. indicate heavy Republican gains everywhere over the election of 1874. The chairman of the Republican State committee claims the State by about 20 000 majority and the legislature by a majority of 40 on joint ballot.

DENVER, Oct. 3.—Two reports have been received from different points which indicate a peaceful election. The vote will be the largest ever cast in Colorado. At this hour nothing definite can be given.

Comparisons will be made with the vote of 1873, when Patterson (Democrat) for Congress was elected by 2 163 majority. Arapahoe county, has elected the entire Republican ticket by a majority of 300, being a Republican gain of 618, Jefferson county, Republican majority 75 Republican gain 213, Gilpin county, Republican majority 300 gain 256. Boulder county Republican majority estimated at 300, Republican gain 271; Clear Creek county, Republican majority estimated at 200. Republican gain 234; Park county, estimated Republican majority 75 Republican gain 230, El Paso county, estimated at 300 Republican majority, Republican gain 230, Pueblo county, estimated Democratic majority 100 Democratic loss 85

The Republicans have undoubtedly carried Colorado by a decided majority and elected the entire State ticket, and secured the legislature by a majority in both branches. This legislature elects two U. S. Senators and three Presidential electors.

The platform was crowded and only about 200 chairs were vacant. Moody preached from First Corinthians 1st chapter and 10th verse. He declared the reason the church and ministers don't succeed better in bringing sinners to Christ is because they don't love them enough. He pleaded for a loving service of the Lord instead of service from a sense of duty. The audience were much more responsive than on the first evening. is in some respects encouraging. On Thibert creek the Rath Brothers' claim has paid well, and it is estimated that they have taken out over $8,000 during the season. The Sylvester claim on Snow creek, has also come up to the company's expectations, and no less than 600 men have been enabled to find employment on Thibert creek and its tributaries. The prospectors who left several months ago to prospect Lacko river have returned, but do not report having discovered any diggings worth working. A party of them, however, intend to return with a good supply of provisions, and will prospect the lake, as from information received from Indians they are inclined to believe that large quantities of gold exist in that locality. Many of the miners intend to winter at Steamboat Landing instead of at Fort Wrangel. Mr M Moss is making extensive arrangements to construct cabins at the landing. He is also erecting a large dwelling house for the accommodation of miners during the dreary winter months. The old claims on Dease creek have paid well and have provided employment for many men who would otherwise have been in a bad fix, and on Thibert creek, besides Rath Bros. claim, the McWha, Shearer and Choquette may be named among the most successful. Numerous others have also remunerated their owners satisfactorily; and Malbow's claim, at the mouth of Berry creek, is paying from 70 to 90 ounces per week steadily. The new gold commissioner, Arthur Vowell, Esq., has won the good will of the miners by his justness, and in many respects he has given satisfaction to parties who under the former administration sought redress in vain. The trail is in good condition, and packing is consequently 4½ cents less per pound this year than last. Provisions, however, not having been equal to the demand, prices have been higher.

At an auction of miscellaneous articles out of doors, it began to sprinkle, when a bystander advised the auctioneer that he had better cut up an umbrella as the next article.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

John Bright on the Eastern Question.

LONDON, Oct 3.—At a meeting of the Reform club in Manchester, last night the Right Hon John Bright made a speech on the Eastern question, and said that he thought a meeting of Parliament was desirable. It would result in a new policy probably under a new ministry and would stamp the future policy of the country with the solemn decision that the blood and treasure of England shall never again be wasted in behalf of the Ottoman power. Turkey should be left to the fate which Providence decreed for corruption.

Austria's Answer to the Russian Note.

A Vienna correspondent of the Times says an answer drawn up by Count Andrassy to the Russian letter was submitted to the Emperor of Austria on Tuesday for his sanction. Andrassy had already communicated his views on the question to Francis Joseph, who had approved them. The letter therefore will undoubtedly receive the imperial sanction and will be ready for the Prussian Envoy to take with him when he leaves on the 5th inst. The Russian letter is the preliminary introduction to peace proposals. These proposals culminate in the declaration that the application and enforcement of the reforms proposed by the Powers, cannot be entrusted to Turkey, therefore the Powers are invited to come to an understanding about the guarantees to be demanded to secure the application of reforms promised. As a precedent, the action of the Powers in 1860 in Syria, which was successful, is recommended. This question of guarantees is not new, having been often discussed in past years but now that the Powers must give a decision on the subject it is undoubtedly the weightiest that has come before them. Russia keeps nominally to England's proposal but proposes to go a step beyond, a great step it is, involving as it does the taking out of the Porte's hands the future organization of Bosnia Herzegovina, Bulgaria, and providing for the occupation of those provinces, although regarding the latter proposition the Syrian precedent hardly applies.

The Times in a leader, says Russia cannot too emphatically be warned that in proposing the occupation of Bulgaria the Czar has misread the minds of Europe. The Times understands that it was not proposed that the Russian and Austrian fleets should watch the Bosphorus but the fleets of England and France. There is no need for such proposal as an English fleet is watching the Bosphorus now and intends to remain there until the storm-clouds blow away from the most coveted station in the world. But the scheme of Russian troops marching to Bulgaria is a masterpiece of boldness and audacity. Bulgaria is the key of Turkey. Should the government of the Czar insist upon its proposition it will lay itself open to the darkest suspicion. Every country in Europe would say that its ardent friendship for the Christian subjects of the Porte was a cover for designs of conquest, and would spread a general alarm.

The Daily News says the Fue Presse hears that Russia and the United States concluded a treaty last August by which the former cedes the port of Okhats in siberia and the adjacent territory on the seashore in exchange for an iron clad and the sum of 10,000,000 roubles, and that a Russian crew has already left for America.

Workmen's Convention.

A Paris correspondent says the opening session of the Congress of Workingmen at the Salle des Ecoles was attended by 253 Parisian and 99 provincial delegates. All the great cities of France were represented. Cabet was elected president and Deperre, of Lyons, secretary. The chief objects of the congress are to devise plans for obtaining higher wages for workingmen and women, and a share in parliamentary representations. There are 207 orators inscribed already, and the 9 days sitting will only give 6 minutes to each. The time is far too short for even the most fluent to give expression to his views on the subject before the convention.

James Lick.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 3.—The entrance to the Lick House was draped with crape, and the rooms of deceased were similarly decked. All preparations were made yesterday for the funeral ceremonies of the late Mr. Lick. Early in the afternoon the board of directors of the California Pioneers convened and received a note from the secretary of the Lick Trust, informing them that the trustees had delegated to the Pioneers the honor of taking charge of the obsequies. This was unanimously and thankfully accepted, and a guard of honor at once detailed to proceed to the Lick House and receive the remains, and with all respect escort them to the society's hall as soon as details could be arranged. The escort met at the Lick House parlor, where the body was delivered to them by the trustees of the fund, who had been guarding them. The remains were then placed in a hearse, and with a number of the delegation on either side, the cortege moved slowly along Montgomery street to the hall. On its arrival at the hall door, the procession was met by the board of directors and all members present in the building, when with slow steps between lines of uncovered heads the casket was carried into the assembly hall and placed on a bier appropriately decked, there to rest until the last honors are paid to the deceased. A general invitation to attend was given the Academy of Sciences, Mechanics' Institute, Chamber of Commerce, the mayor and board of supervisors, the society of territorial pioneers, the government and city officers judges of federal, supreme and district courts, the county, probate and criminal court judges, justices of the peace, trustees and ex-trustees of James Lick trust, and all societies and organizations, civic and military, and all citizens who desire to testify to their respect for the deceased. On the day of the funeral, the remains will be placed in the vault of the new cemetery of the Masonic Brotherhood, if consent can be obtained therefor until arrangements have been completed for the final burial. Mr. Murphy, mayor of San Jose, yesterday called upon the trustees and stated that Mr. Lick had expressed to him a desire to be interred on Mount Hamilton on the site of the observatory to be erected by the trustees of the fund, and it is probable that will be the final disposition of the remains. It seems to be the general impression among the trustees and those interested in the Lick estate that Mr. John Lick will come to this city at once. Telegrams were sent him yesterday morning by Mr. Schoenwald and others, informing him of the death of his father, and from an answer received, he is expected to be in this city by the first of next week. The date of the funeral has been changed from Tuesday to Wednesday next.

No statement of the condition of the bank was made public in accordance with past custom.

CORMORANT FISHING IN ENGLAND.

This very curious sport is gaining ground in England. The use of cormorants for fishing purposes has been practiced for centuries by the Chinese, who carefully train their birds to deliver prey uninjured to their master, instead of appropriating it to their own use; and from China and other Oriental countries it has been brought to England. Cormorant fishing recalls, in a measure, the old days of falconry, with the exception that, while the feats of the trained hawks and falcons were performed in mid air, the performances of the "sea crow," as the French call it, take place in water. With a ring placed round their necks to prevent them swallowing their booty though well trained birds will dispense with this restraint, the cormorants plunge at a given signal into the water, and hardly ever fail to bring up a finny prize. Their broad webbed feet and their thin keel shaped body, admirably adapt them for swimming and diving; and they will often use their short, stiff wings as an additional means of propulsion. So swift are they, and so sudden their descent, that the nimblest fish do not escape them. If they seize their prey otherwise than by the head, they ascend to the surface, and quickly jerking it in the air, will adroitly catch it as it falls headforemost.

The Daily Oregonian.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCT. 4, 1876.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION.

Mr. Kirkpatrick's educational bill—H. B. No. 75—makes a radical change in the system of public education in the State. It exchanges the voluntary for the compulsory system. The first section provides that parents and guardians of children between the ages of seven and sixteen, residing in organized school districts, who fail to send such children to school at least twelve weeks in the year shall forfeit annually for such failure not less than ten nor more than twenty dollars, to the school district. Section 2 provides that the district directors shall provide books and tuition of indigent pupils at the expense of the district. Certain exemptions from the operation of the law are made, viz.: of children who are physically or mentally incapable of receiving tuition; of children residing more than five miles from the school house; of children sent to private schools; and of children who within the prescribed ages have attended school at least eighteen months and can read and write. Section 3 provides the details of putting the law into effect.

It will be seen that while this bill enforces the compulsory plan it deals with the subject very carefully, requiring but a moderate amount of schooling to each year, making provision for all reasonable excuses, and prescribing but a light penalty for violation. If the compulsory plan is to be adopted, this precaution against pressing too violently against the habits and interests of the parents is necessary. Whether or not the State is prepared for compulsory education the legislature can perhaps judge better than anybody else, coming as the members do from all parts of the State. Surely something is needed to give vitality to our school system. The facts which were laid before the public through the OREGONIAN some time since, showing that there was a general discussion of the subject, as well editorially as by correspondence from various sections of the country, are actually alarming. It was shown then that in some localities public education is almost entirely ignored; and children are growing up in as dense ignorance as in the earliest days when the sparseness of population made it impossible to sustain schools. Sooner or later, it may be assumed, we shall have to come to the compulsory plan, and it is by no means certain that the time for beginning has not arrived. The system must work slowly and with some friction at first, but experience would enable future legislatures to obviate its defects, and bring the people to a better comprehension of the methods of administering it. Is it not now be well to give it a trial?

A CASE OF POLITICO-RELIGIOUS PERTURBATION.

The world has been thrown into a perturbed state of mind by our remarks concerning politico-religious journalism, and like all people in that condition, says some foolish things. Here is the pith of a somewhat extended argument, or what is apparently intended for argument, on the subject:

> In the first place politics are as diametrically opposed to religion (in the political party especially) to action as possible, and in the second, men of all parties subscribe for church papers, and for them to take any decided stand in politics is not only in bad taste but an insult to one-half the subscribers. Will the OREGONIAN kindly say that it is the province of a religious paper to become theological and lay down the dogmas of religion?

In the first place politics are as diametrically opposed to religion as our perturbed neighbor would have its readers believe, politics would be reformed at once; but we apprehend our neighbor, being rather hard pressed for an argument, has drawn it a little stronger than the truth warrants. A good deal of the politics of the times, is opposed to religion, however, and that is one of the main reasons why religious papers and religious ministers should be expected to bear a hand in political matters. The politics that are opposed to religion, should be unsparingly castigated by the religious press, or else the minister in the pulpit should resign its position as moral teacher. But, says the perturbed men of both parties subscribe for the religious papers, and it would be an insult to them to discuss politics. Is it to be understood, then, that a paper should never take any ground whereon it might engage with some of its readers? Much good would such a religious paper do! It would be as flat as a Democratic party organ, from which nothing but stale organ music is ever expected. It is presumed that all papers that are worth reading are frequently advocating views opposed to those of numbers of their readers. A paper that does this ought not to have any readers. It is not worth its postage, let alone its subscription price.

But now comes the great culminating argument: "will the OREGONIAN dare say that it is the province of political papers to become theological and lay down the dogmas of religion?" It is wholly irrelevant what political papers ought or ought not to do, the question being as to the province and duties of religious papers; but in order to quiet the nerves of the perturbed, and gratify its curiosity on the momentous question, we reply that the OREGONIAN will "dare" say just that. The laying down of "the dogmas of religion" which the average political paper should do, would not, in all probability, be received as of the very highest authority; but its right to lay them down to its heart's content appear to us indisputable. We should be not a little grieved now if the Standard, becoming converted to our opinion, and rejoicing in the liberty with which it finds itself invested, should go into the dogma business; for it is a dismal enough concern already, and the dogmas to be expected from such source would be too discouraging to contemplate.

Two ingenious Juniors at Dartmouth College have altered a dilapidated 24-hour clock to a 9-day timepiece. They can easily change it so that it will run a month without winding, and if sufficient encouragement is offered they will arrange it for running till the end of their senior year. Their latest move has been arranging their beds at right angles one above the other, for economy of room.

SOME TRIFLING INACCURACIES CORRECTED.

Hon. D. P. Thompson has called our attention to the fact that in our allusion to his testimony at Washington we were inaccurate as to dates. The transaction to which he testified was in July, 1872, when Judge Williams was Attorney General, and not while he was Senator; and the testimony was given before a House committee instead of the Senate judiciary committee. He was summoned to go before the judiciary committee at the time we mentioned, but, for some cause, did not appear, and afterwards was brought before a House committee and gave his testimony. Except as to these immaterial inaccuracies of date, our statement was correct. The transaction was this: In July, 1872, Judge Williams made a proposition to procure from the Surveyor General of Oregon, for a gentleman at Oregon City, surveying contracts to the amount of ten thousand dollars, if the gentleman would give J. J. Hoffman, whom Judge Williams expressed a desire to take care of in some way, $2,000 as a bonus. Hoffman's needs were immediate, and it was desired that he should receive his bonus without waiting for the contractor to get his money from the government for the work; so it was proposed that Thompson should advance the money, Williams agreeing to reimburse him by paying his check for the same amount in New York, and Williams afterwards to get his money back when the surveying was paid for by the government. Upon this basis the parties came to an agreement, and Judge Williams reduced it to writing, making triplicate copies, and it was signed by the three. Judge Williams procured the contracts from the Surveyor General—though it was claimed by the contractor that they were not such as had been agreed upon, being in fact for surveying difficult, mountainous country—and Thompson did advance the money to Hoffman—less some few hundreds which Hoffman owed Williams, and which was collected in this way. Thompson drew his check on New York for the money he had advanced, which was sent on, and Williams paid it. Then, when the work had been performed under the contracts, the contractor paid Williams the $2,000. One at least of the triplicate copies of the agreement is still in existence.

By tracing the transaction through it will be seen that Thompson had no interest in it whatever, he simply advancing the money to Hoffman on Williams' obligation to repay him; and that Williams had no pecuniary interest in it, beyond the collection of a small debt from Hoffman, who was rather impecunious. It was nevertheless a contract for which $2,000 bonus was paid, and was procured by Judge Williams, then Attorney-General, with whom the scheme originated; and we take it every candid mind will agree with us that it was such a transaction as no political party could carry, if there were any saving power in Judge Williams' favorite doctrine of party responsibility instead of individual responsibility.

SHALL EACH COUNTY PAY FOR KEEPING ITS INSANE?

SALEM, Oct. 3, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Permit me to take issue with your remarks in your paper of September 30th, upon the Senate bill, introduced by Mr. Cochran, relating to the management and care of the insane.

Your criticism of that bill seems in the main to be just, but I think the solitary feature of that measure which you approve, namely, the section providing that the State should pay the contractor in the first instance, while the counties pay the State for the care of the insane respectively sent by them to the asylum, is open to grave objection, from the standpoint of the humanitarian, at least.

At the first glance, the provision seems to be an equitable one as you suggest, but in practice it is liable to lead to mischievous results. For instance, in the case of those small counties, having but a sparse population, in remote parts of the State, the expense incurred by sending their insane to the asylum would prove a grievous burden to communities already burdened by the taxation necessary to carry on their county organizations. So serious indeed would be the heavy burden of mileage and traveling in such cases, that the temptation to refuse to declare a person insane in order to relieve the county from taxation would too frequently be irresistible. The result would, be that unfortunates of this class would either be farmed out as county paupers, or else turned at liberty; in either case would they be deprived of the care and treatment, to which as wards of the State, they are entitled, while in the former case the evils resulting from such a system have been so enormous that the humanity of the age forbids any return to it.

The law is better as it is. To the State at large properly belongs the charge of caring for such unfortunates, and their rights should not be subjected to the caprice of any individual or individuals who from the very circumstances of the case, would be liable to be influenced by considerations utterly at variance with the dictates of an enlarged humanity.

JUSTICE.

Daniel Webster made his first speech before a jury—a speech which was really an argument against capital punishment—in the court house of Grafton county, N. H. Like nearly all old buildings in this country which have any historical value, it is condemned to be torn down; efforts, however, are making to preserve it.

RUPTURE!

No More Metallic Trusses Used!

No More Suffering from Iron Hoops or Steel Springs!

THE SUPERIORITY OF OUR ELASTIC Trusses over the rigid Iron Hoop, which in former days were the only resource of the ruptured, admits of NO ARGUMENT.

By means of this appliance the pressure on the Rupture itself can be made uniform and continuous, and to the extent required in each case, until a slight inflammation of the parts is secured, and the consequent effusion of lymph which is essential to a healing process, and from this to the conclusion of the treatment, the pressure, being entirely within the control of the patient, can be lessened daily as the adhesion progresses and the body becomes sound. All cases of reducible Hernia are permanently relieved, without regard to the age of the patient or the duration of the injury, while in its action it is wholly free from all the cruelty that has characterized the treatment of the malady with various Metal Trusses from the earliest ages to the present day. Your attention is called to the following facts:

1st—There are no springs to press upon or to injure the back.

2d—It is simple in construction, and not liable to get out of order.

3d—This instrument is worn with perfect ease while riding horseback.

4th—The Rupture is retained and the pressure the same while in any position.

5th—It has none of the injurious results of metallic Trusses.

6th—It will perform radical cures when all others fail.

7th—It is worn with ease and comfort night and day, which cannot be said truthfully of an metal Truss whatever.

Experience shows that all tempered spring Trusses necessarily press upon and often disease parts of the body that before were in a modestly healthy condition. Lumbago and other equally distressing ailments are not unfrequently the outgrowth of such pressure, and in view of this fact it becomes a matter of decided consequence to avoid like calamities, if possible.

Examination Free. The closest scrutiny of physicians solicited.

LEGISLATIVE NOTES.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

A BILL TO ENCOURAGE LITIGATION MYERS TAX BILL WHISKY LICENSE AND WOMAN SUFFRAGE

The legal fraternity is well aware that the justices' code of this State is not the most perfect system of law in the world and though the various attempts to change it which are being made by this legislature may in some respects make it more applicable to the numberless exigencies in which it is to be applied, we fear the total result of all the amendments would not be found advantageous Among the measures which propose to reform the justices' code is S. B 25, introduced by Mr Bradshaw This bill repeals the provisions of the law which refuses the defendant the right of appeal in a criminal action when the judgment is that he pay a fine not exceeding $20 or be imprisoned ten days, also, repealing the provisions prohibiting appeal in certain cases by the party who calls for a jury The repeal of these sections of the law we fear will not be found advantageous in the administration of justice as their repeal will floodgate the superior courts with suits for trifling sums and the consumption of time costs and trouble will ensue, to the hindrance of the more important business The multiplication of small suits in the circuit court that would follow the repeal of these provisions might very seriously embarrass the circuit court Even at present there are great expenses incurred in all the counties by the investigation of trifles in the circuit courts that should never be allowed to come up there

MYERS' TAX BILL.

S B No. 27 introduced by Senator Myers, provides that sec. 16, title 3, chap 57 of the law relating to assessments be amended so as not to allow the deduction of any indebtedness from the assessment of any person except where the person assessed has debts due him he may set off against the same the amount of any indebtedness due from him to any person or persons in the State. This provision does not strike us as being just adapted to remedy all the evils of the assessment law of which the complaint is made, but it has some good features In case the bill b comes a law a man who owes a thousand dollars and has a like amount due him will not be assessed at all, but if he has a thousand dollars and owes $500 he will be taxed on $500 In this supposed case the law would not be subject to so much abuse, but it might be liable to quite as much abuse in other instances as the old law If any person desiring to evade the payment of the just tax on his property should choose to do so, he might find the same loop holes or others equally as large as in the present provisions on this subject.

LIQUOR LICENSE BILLS

Are pending in both houses, and the temperance side of the question appears to have a good many friends in the branches of this legislature Among these bills is one to compel the applicant for license at his own cost to secure the signatures of all citizens, male or female over 21 years of age, of the precinct, city, town or ward in which he proposes to engage in business, to his petition, to be presented to the county court Another bill is one which fines, imprisons and forfeits the license of any saloon keeper who allows any minor to purchase liquors at his bar, or to play any games in his saloon This bill would exclude several hundred youngsters from the saloons in the cities of the State and a very important item of the income of the liquor traffic would be cut off. Another bill in reference to the same business proposes to extend the provisions of the act prohibiting the sale of liquors on election days to all days declared by law to be non judicial How many of these measures will ever reach a final vote cannot be told, nor whether any of them would pass if reaching that stage While it is true that no man ought to set a trap for his neighbor, it is also true that a man ought not to go voluntarily into the trap himself or suffer his boys to run into it, and if the people are to be protected from the evils of the liquor traffic, they must protect themselves, which, in the present condition of the world, can be most effectually accomplished by the practice of self-control.

THE HOUSE

Took an unusually industrious fit yesterday evening and adjourned to meet at 8 o'clock this morning At that hour all the members but five appeared, though some of them came without their breakfasts

Among other things which came up this forenoon was a joint resolution unanimously reported by the committee on judiciary providing for the submission to the people of an amendment to the Constitution giving the right of suffrage to women. The resolution may pass notwithstanding the predictions made that a Democratic legislature will do nothing of the kind.

THE SANTIAM BRIDGE DISASTER.

"Zero" writing from Jefferson under date of the 3d inst, gives the following additional particulars of the Santiam bridge accident

I noticed in your issue yesterday a partial account of the accident which occurred last Thursday on the Santiam bridge, at Green's Ferry, and thinking that the public may be desirous of knowing more I send you the following:

The bridge is being built by A. S. Miller & Son, of Eugene City It consists of two spans, one being 190 feet, the other 170 The longer span is already raised, and the false work removed The false work for the other span was braced only to the pier, as the abutment was not finished When the abutment was completed, and the raising of the span began the additional bracing of the false work to the abutment was overlooked The end of the span over the abutment was twenty inches lower than the end over the pier which would give the whole span a tendency toward the abutment

At the time of the accident, the top chord on one side was up and along one-third on the other side No one knows just what caused the false work to give way but, without a moment's warning, the whole span shot endways toward the abutment, Henry Kohler and John Migley were on the top chord, which was finished Nelson Rooney and Henry Miller on the one which was unfinished, forty four feet above water Aleck Burgess, Ed Rooney, Will Hawchett, Wm Crabtree, Mike McQueen, Herman Garike, and a visitor named Devany, were on the bottom chord, twenty-eight feet above water Every man went down amidst the breaking and crashing of falling timber Kohler and Migley were landed upon the ground almost unhurt Ed Rooney and Miller were thrown into five feet of swift running water. Rooney was badly hurt not fairly cut in several places about the head,—his worst injury being a broken nose He was carried a hundred yards below the wreck and was rescued just in time to be saved from drowning Miller received a cut on the head and a concussion of the back sufficient to prevent the use of his lower limbs for some time. Nelson Rooney had three ribs broken, a bad cut on the chin, and other serious, but still, not fatal injuries Burgess received severe cuts about the head and face. McQueen's injury consists of a broken thigh. One of Crabtree's legs was badly bruised, but not broken The others escaped with slight injury.

The verdict of all who have seen the wreck is "What a wonder that every man was not killed" Nelson Rooney, Miller and McQueen are now the only ones confined, and from present prospects each bids fair to a perfect recovery in the course of time.

The loss as estimated by the contractor, will not exceed fifteen hundred dollars The wreck has been cleared away and reconstruction is progressing rapidly, and without further delay will be completed by the 1st of November ZERO

New York World, extra edition, says that A Weber has received the first premium for his Pianos. It further remarks that Steinway has spent more money to get the first prize than the profit of one thousand of his pianos

CYRUS NOBLE DISTILLERY, 1st Dist., O.

CINCINNATI April 1, 1876.

Messrs LILIENTHAL & Co.

Gentlemen—I have just returned from a trip through Kentucky Ohio and West Virginia, undertaken for the purpose of examining the various distilleries in those districts, and I am now more than ever confirmed in the opinion, so often expressed to you, that your distillery is the most complete, and best conducted of any in the United States.

The careful selection of your grain, the purity of the water, the slower and more cautious method of distillation, is what gives the NOBLE WHISKY its superior qualities, and has gained for it the reputation which it universally sustains throughout the United States.

Gratified that the 20 years devoted to the distillation of the CYRUS NOBLE WHISKY, has been attended with such happy results, I trust I may be spared to continue my labors in its interest, and that of its many patrons and consumers.

I am, Gentlemen,

Yours faithfully,

CYRUS NOBLE.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCT. 4, 1876.

THE BALD HEADED TYRANT.

BY MARY E. VANDYNE.

Oh! the quietest home on earth had I,
No thought of trouble, no hint of care,
Like a dream of pleasure the days fled by,
And Peace had folded her pinions there.
But one day there joined in our household band
A bald headed tyrant from No-man's land.

Oh! the despot came in the dead of night,
And no one ventured to ask him why;
Like slaves we trembled before his might
Our hearts stood still when we heard him cry;
For never a soul could his power withstand
That bald headed tyrant from No-man's land.

He ordered us here and he sent us there—
Though never a word could his small lips speak—
With his toothless gums and his vacant stare,
And his helpless limbs so frail and weak,
Till I cried, in a voice of stern command,
"Go up, thou bald-head from No-man's land!"

But his abject slaves they turned on me;
Like the bears in Scripture, they'd rend me there,
The while they worshipped with bended knee
This ruthless wretch with the missing hair;
For he rules them all with relentless hand,
This bald headed tyrant from No-man's land.

Then I searched for help in every clime,
For peace had fled from my dwelling now,
Till I finally thought of old Father Time,
And low before him I made my bow:
"Wilt thou deliver me out of his hand,
This bald-headed tyrant from No man's land?"

Old Time he looked with a puzzled stare,
And a smile over his features grim,
"I'll take the tyrant under my care;
Watch what my hour-glass does to him.
The veriest humbug that ever was planned
Is the same bald head from No-man's land."

Old Time is doing his work full well—
Much less of might does the tyrant wield;
But, ah! with sorrow my heart will swell
And sad tears fall as I see him yield.
Could I stay the touch of that shrivelled hand,
I would keep the bald head from No-man's land.

For the loss of Peace I have ceased to care;
Like other people, I've learned, forsooth,
To love the wretch who forgot his hair
And hurried along without a tooth.
And he rules me too with his tiny hand,
This bald-headed tyrant from No man's land.

[illegible] COUNTY.

A SHORT CROP OF WHEAT AND A LARGE ONE OF [illegible] FEVER, WHICH?

[illegible] CITY, Oct. 2, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

For some time past the attention of our [illegible] has been directed toward harvesting their crops, and the unanimous opinion of all is that the wheat crop of our county has fallen short more than one-half that of preceding years.

The hop crop has been more than average, and of excellent quality, and with a good price, will bring a good round sum of money to [illegible] of our industrious hop growers.

There is also great activity manifested this [illegible] in fruit drying. We have a patent dryer in full blast, employing a large number of our "hoodlums," and if our farmers could only get a little enough to gather and haul their fruit to town, it would be profitable for them and those engaged in drying.

Our town has been very dull and quiet since harvesting commenced, not a thing, excepting the great circus and a very hasty wedding, to cause any commotion among us until to-day. Two weeks ago a Mrs. Abrams died, of what was then supposed to be fever, and after her burial, the husband, Mr. W. H. Abrams, was taken sick and [illegible] sick ever since, as the public understood, with fever or some common complaint. A great number of his friends and acquaintances visited and waited on Mr. Abrams unconscious of being exposed to [illegible] A few days ago it was rumored about town that Mr. A. [illegible] surprised and alarmed our citizens, as so many had [illegible] sick man and unknowingly exposed themselves to the contagion. After the alarm [illegible] general our wise city council [illegible] into a sanitary or health committee, and visited Mr. Abrams; and after great deliberation pronounced the rumor false and publicly denied the existence of smallpox [illegible]. Our citizens, however, fearing our city council is incapable of distinguishing a case of smallpox from one of whooping cough, appealed to one of our most distinguished physicians to examine the sick man and give us the truth. The result of the investigation proved it to be a well developed case of smallpox. Now we have the attending physician stoutly denying, and the examining physician as strongly asserting the existence of smallpox in our town. What the result will be, no one knows. The sanitary or health committee would be doing efficient service if they could take shovels and wheelbarrows and move around town and assist in cleaning up some of the filth and cesspools—and would certainly receive the thanks of all intelligent citizens if they would appoint M. Ds. to examine into diseases and make reports instead of exposing themselves and others to such a loathsome disease. It is only a few weeks since a pretender was arrested, convicted and imprisoned in San Francisco for neglect in reporting a case of smallpox, and naming it some other disease. What our citizens will do in this case remains to be seen. Moreover,

VERACITY.

GENERAL NOTES.

Hard to [illegible]—Boiled eggs.

A man of [illegible] tendencies—The chronologist.

A cargo can be found best when it is within dex—man[illegible].

It consoles the New Orleans Republican that Charley F[illegible] will soon be big enough to find himself.

"A prudent man," says a witty Frenchman, "is like a pin; his head prevents him from going too far."

The young collegian who wrote home for a new coat and got one a mile too big, suggests that that was not a "fitting" reply.

A young poet of the realistic school writes: "[illegible] on with the slow, measured [illegible] by the day."

"You [illegible] nothing, do you?" said Pat "Bedad, an' if it's nothing ye want, ye'll find it in the jug [illegible] the whisky was."

Appearances are deceitful. At camp-meeting it is difficult to tell from the background whether the man on the front seat is shouting glory or has just sat down on a tack.—Norwich Bulletin.

It is not believed that there is an artist in the world who can catch the expression of a woman's face as she puts her nose into the milk-jug and finds that the thunder has soured the contents.

The bridge of the Boston Water Works over Charles river is supported by the largest arch, except one, in the world. It measures 134 feet in length and 65 feet from the keystone to the water.

The tramp who strayed into a farmer's premises and tried to make off with a cheese, came out with a black eye, acknowledging that he had been rather dairylicked in the pursuit of his duties.

A Western girl visited a music store and asked for "The Heart Boiled Down with Grease and Care," and "When I Swallowed Home-made Pies." The clerk at once recognized what she desired.

Prof. Swing, in preaching, the other day, about the influence of natural science on religion, said that "his church had not broken away from theological tyranny to become slaves to new masters."

An intermission of twenty-four hours preceded the second part of the Wagner musical festival at Bayreuth, in order, the Brooklyn Argus says, to give time for the burial of those who died from exhaustion during the first part.

The Princess of Salm Salm is about to marry an English gentleman at Stuttgart, named Heneage. The princess was originally Miss Agnes Leclercq, of Baltimore, who, in 1862, married Prince Felix Salm Salm, then a brigadier in the Union army, and afterwards an aide-de-camp of the unfortunate Maximilian, of Mexico. Prince Felix, restored through her efforts to his position in the Prussian army, fell gallantly fighting at Gravelotte.

Mr. C. J. O'Hara, of New Orleans, claims to possess an original painting of Raphael's, stolen and consequently lost during the sacking of Rome by the Constable de Bourbon in 1527. It is "The Last Supper," and he notes as the persons who have mentioned its existence, Quatremere de Quincy and Spooner (in his "Dictionary of Painters.") It was given to Marc Antonio Raimondi to engrave. Mr. O'Hara has traced back the picture through 80 years of burial in New Orleans.
